TERrible MINE DISASTER.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY MEN EN-TOMBED IN A MINE.

Another Explosion Imminent Which Should It Occur Would Be the Most Disastrous Mine Disaster on Record—A List of the Victims as Far as Reported.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 6.—News has just reached here of an explosion in one of the shafts of the Victoria Coal company. One hundred and fifty miners were at work in the mine when the explosion occurred, and it is feared that many of them will die before assistance can reach them. Rescuing parties have made several attempts to reach them, but the flames and gases arising from the mines have thus far prevented them from getting near enough to be of any assistance.
The families of the miners are crowding around the mouth of the pit, crying and praying that the lives of the entombed may be saved. The scenes are heartrending. Many families will be left entirely destitute.

It was believed late last night that the fire in the air shaft had been extinguished and that only a small body of flame existed between the air and the main shafts, which can be conquered before long. An attempt will soon be made to bring air in and the work of rescue will begin.

A shift that came up late in the night reported hearing evidence of a pick striking the opposite side of the wall. There is a faint hope of reaching the imprisoned men. The danger of gas being driven into the fire and a second explosion is not past, and fears are entertained that the whole place may be blown up. Old miners say such a result is possible. If it should occur the catastrophe would be the greatest recorded in the history of coal mining. The mines extend out from the shore more than a mile beneath the waters of the harbor. The cause of the explosion is unknown, but it is generally supposed to have been an explosion of coal dust.
The tale may never be told.

The men now in the bowels of the earth were on the afternoon shift—from 2 until 10 o'clock. Jules Michael, one of the injured, says he was at supper in No. 2 shaft when he felt the concussions. All scrambled, but he became insensible, and only one was saved of his four companions, whose dead bodies came up in the cage with him. He represents the explosion as having been terrible. Everything became dark at once. John Lynch, another of the injured, has been demoted ever since the accident. He continually talks about working in the pit. It is thought he will die, having inhaled gas.

Samuel Hudson, one of the killed, was a miner of great experience. He died from the effects of after damp.

Following are the names of the killed and injured.

Dead—William Davis, John Linn, John Smith, William Craven, Frederick Watson and Samuel Hudson; also, seven Chinamen.

Injured—George Davis, John Jones, J.
Stone, Sr., John Lynch and Jules Michael.

Richard Gibson, the overseer of the mine, miraculously escaped with a few cuts about the face. It is estimated that there are between fifty and seventy-five Chinamen in the mine. The following is a list of those now in the mine, as near as can be ascertained:

No. 1 Level—George Bowden, George Summons, T. Martin, David Ellis and his son Arthur, Benjamin Popplewell, James

Bedford counties between 7 and 8 o'clock last evening. A few moments before the storm came a roaring like the discharge of so many cannon was heard in the distance, and as soon as the clouds rolled across the sky the roaring increased. The storm struck the mountains, moving in a northwesterly direction, and was about a quarter of a mile wide. For two miles the large trees were twisted off like straws, and everything in its train onto the earth. In some instances immense trees were caught up and carried several hundred feet into the air, and hurled back again with such swiftness and cannot be described.

WASHINGTON C. DE PAUW.

Death of the Well Known Millionaire and Philanthropist.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., May 6.—Mr. Washington C. De Pauw, of this city, the well known millionaire and philanthropist who was stricken with apoplexy in Chicago last night, died at 11 o'clock today. His remains will be brought to this city for interment. The sad news has cast gloom over the city. Next to W. H. English, Mr. De Pauw was the wealthiest man in Indiana.

Mr. De Pauw is credited with having been the greatest of American plate glass manufacturers. However that may be will be longest known as the great patron of the Indiana Ashbury university at a time when it was in dire necessity. This university was founded in 1857, and for forty-seven years thereafter it remained but a university in name.

A few years ago Mr. De Pauw, the president of the board of trustees, came to the rescue by meeting the university's immediate wants and providing for its future on a magnificent scale. Under his patronage the college was at once reorganized and expanded into a university, the trustees voting that it should hereafter bear its benefactor's name.
Besides his liberal donations during life Mr.
De Pauw has provided that 45 per cent of his vast estate shall go to the university.

The DAILY BULLETIN will be delivered to any part of the city at 6 cents a week, or one year for $3.

The DAILY BULLETIN to any postoffice in the United States, postage prepaid, at twenty-five cents per month or three dollars per year.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 6, 1887.

A DISPATCH yesterday afternoon from Charles Phister announced the election of Judge Faulkner as United States Senator from West Virginia.

CYNTHIANA boasts of having better streets and sidewalks than any other town double her size in the State. She also prides herself on being the best "laid out city" in Kentucky.

THE Louisville liquor men have "chipped in" and raised a fund to fight prohibition in Texas. Somebody must be getting a little uneasy as to the fate of the whisky question. Money does the work in elections.

The Democrats of Bracken will nominate a candidate for the Legislature by primary election, May 28th. There are two aspirants—Joel B. Hamilton and Joseph A. Walton. The latter is said to have the lead.

CAPTAIN TOM OWENS, of Carlisle, has been selected to deliver the eulogy on General Helm, at a meeting of the "Orphan Brigade" to be held in Bardstown, Ky., ere long. He declines the honor, however, as he will not be able to attend.

A $12,000 Confederate monument will be unveiled at Hopkinsville on the 19th of this month. It was presented to the city by J. C. Laytham, a former citizen of that place, but now a wealthy New Yorker. This is not the only thing Laytham has done for his old home, as he gave $40,000 to aid in building a number of turnpikes from that city into the surrounding country.

Pithy Points From Washington.

We believe there are enough men in the county of Mason, who are opposed to the business of drunkard-making, to vote whisky out of the county when the time comes.

We believe that it would be to the best interest of all good citizens were there not a drop of intoxicating liquor to be found in the county.

We believe that Maysville would do double the business in less than two years, were there not a drop of whisky made at the distilleries nor sold in the saloons, drug stores or groceries.

We believe that the taxes of the county would be cut down fully one-half, were the people to vote liquor with all its attendant evils from their midst.

We believe that the improvement in the morals of the community would alone compensate the people for the removal of this stupendous evil and wrong from among them.

We believe that the liquor business from its inception to its completion is a matter of more trouble and worry to the Government, municipality and family than all other evils combined.

We believe that the labor troubles, about which so much is said and written, are more chargeable to whisky and drunkenness and the evils which follow in their wake, than to any other agency.

We believe that every man who is engaged in the whisky traffic in any of its branches is the enemy of the Government, the municipality and the family, though he may not be aware of it.

We believe that every life the whisky people take of those who are working for the mitigation of the evil, will surely hasten the day of its discomfiture and doom. Witness, the murder of that good man in Scioto County, Ohio, but a few days since!

KNIGHTS OF LABOR NOTES.

Nicholasville, Ky., has one of the finest assemblies in the State. Its membership of 200 includes the most wide-awake and intelligent and moral people of the community.

The members of Loyal Assembly are frequently told by individuals outside of the order of what transpires at the meetings. A working man who is not connected with the order stated not long since that he could learn of everything happening in the meeting through the unguarded conversations of the members. This is an outrage, and let me caution the members against the too free use of their tongues. As far as the business is concerned, we might publish it and in no way be injured. Abolish street corner committees, brothers, and there will be no complaints of members revealing the business of the assembly.

"Isn't that Mrs. Holmes? I thought the doctors gave her up. She looks well now."

"She is well. After the doctors gave up her case she tried Dr. Pierces' Favorite Prescription and began to get better right away. I heard her say not long ago, that she hadn't felt so well in twenty years. She does her own work, and says that life seems worth living, at last. 'Why,' said she, 'I feel as if I had been raised from the dead, almost.' Thus do thousands attest the marvelous efficacy of this God-given remedy for female weakness, prolapsus, ulceration, leucorrhœa, morning sickness, weakness of stomach, tendency to cancerous disease, nervous prostration, general debility and kindred affections.

The Democratic State convention at Louisville has finished its work and the above is the result. It assembled Wednesday, May 4th, and at midnight that night, General Buckner was nominated for Governor by acclamation. Thursday morning, the nomination of Bryan, for Lieutenant Governor, Hewitt, for Auditor, and Tate, for Treasurer, soon followed. There was no opposition to them, and they were awarded the honor by acclamation.

The fight for the nomination for Attorney General was soon settled. Before the completion of the first ballot, Richards saw how things were going, and withdrew his name.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction there were five candidates, Pickett, Taylor, Thompson, Boreing and Goodnight. On the first ballot Pickett had a fraction over 245 votes. The hindmost candidate was dropped at the third ballot and so on, the contest resulting in the nomination of Prof. Pickett on the fifth ballot.

The nomination of Corbett, for Register of the Land Office, soon followed, and the work of the convention was finished.

PETER SMITH HUNG.

The Murderer of John Hannan Pays the Death Penalty.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Peter Smith was hanged in the yard of the Tombs prison this morning. The procession from the cell of the prisoner reached the scaffold at 7:25 o'clock a. m. with Fathers O'Connor and Duranquet on either side of the condemned man. The noose was adjusted, Smith kissed the crucifix, and at 7:30 a. m. the drop fell. Death was instantaneous. The body was lowered into a coffin sixteen minutes later.

Smith, with an accomplice named Alexander Sweeney, murdered John Hannan, a city watchman, on April 7, 1885. Both men were indicted for the crime, and sentenced to be hanged, but their case was appealed.

The court of appeals recently affirmed the judgment of the lower court in Smith's case and ordered a new trial in the case of Sweeney. Smith is believed to be guilty of a worse crime than the murder of Hannan. The old man was found dead in his stable, one morning, and it was believed at the time that he committed suicide. It is now thought that his son slew him to secure a few thousand dollars which the old man had saved. This is the first time in the history of the state that capital punishment has been carried out on any day but Friday.

Camden Gives It Up.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 6.—The ballot this afternoon was as follows: First ballot, Camden, 45; Flick, 20; Barrie, 5; Chew, 9; Brown, 1; Haymond, 1. On the second ballot Camden held his own, Flick gained 1; Barrie and Chew lost 1 each, Haymond giving 2. On the third ballot there was no change. Fourth, Flick lost 1 and Barrie gained 1; Fifth, Chew lost 1, which went to Haymond. Sixth, Haymond lost one, which went to Judge Johnston. Seventh, Haymond and Johnston lost one each; Chew gained two. Total number voting at each ballot, 89; necessary to a choice, 45. Mr. Camden has thrown up the sponge, and the two factions of the party will, it is now said, unite and elect a United States senator.

Overdose or Suicide.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Rev. Charles Ward, formerly rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church at Englewood, N. J., who shot himself and his wife, and tried to kill his little daughter, last February, was found dead at the residence of Judge Drew, at Rockland, late yesterday afternoon. Drew was his counsel and took Ward to his house. An empty bottle which had contained hydrate chlorate was found by Ward's side. The dead man was in the habit of taking the mixture to induce sleep, and perhaps took an overdose. His wife lately began proceedings for divorce. The grand jury did not indict him for the shooting, but the case would probably have been acted upon shortly but for the clergyman's death.

AN EXPERT BRICKMAKER.

The Story Told by a Chicago Man. Gathering Methods and Points.

No man in Chicago is possessed of more information on the subject of brickmaking than George M. Pullman. Though probably without personal experience in the mixing and burning of clay, Mr. Pullman might be set down as an expert brickmaker. As illustrating the thoroughness with which Pullman uses preparations before embarking in an enterprise, a well known brickmaker tells a very good story. Some years ago, when Pullman was preparing to engage in the brick business on the shores of Lake Calumet, this brickmaker received an invitation to call on the sleeping car magnate and talk brickmaking. Having in view the infernal possibility of a co-partnership, or contract, or other profitable connection with the Pullman town building enterprise, the brickmaker gladly availed himself of the opportunity thus offered. Pullman received him graciously, and in private showed him samples of Lake Calumet clay, asked questions concerning brickmaking methods and materials, and listened quite patiently while the brickmaker, warming up with his subject and naturally anxious to make a good impression, somewhat enthusiastically related his experience during the last twenty years, and described many of the processes which he had hitherto held almost as secrets. The interview over, Pullman said he would take the matter under consideration, and that his caller might expect to hear from him again almost any day.

As yet the brickmaker has not heard from Pullman. He was not long in learning, however, that half a dozen other skilled brickmakers had been similarly favored by the ambitious town builder, and that from all of them the host had drawn descriptions of their favorite methods and many valuable points concerning materials and machinery. Moreover, it was soon learned that while these brickmaking gentlemen were thus talking to Mr. Pullman in that gentleman's private office a shorthand man was industriously at work behind a screen making verbatim record of all he heard.

No one of the expert brickmakers was called for a second time by the sleeping car landlord, but in a few months they all heard, with what chagrin may be easily imagined, that Pullman had engaged in the brickmaking business on his own account. Chicago Herald.

Mr. William Douglas relates this story of the old dueling days in the British army, and of a famous officer. There was a certain Frenchman in Paris, during the occupation of that city by the allied army, who boasted of having killed a dozen English officers, and promised to go on in this work. One evening he swaggered as usual into his cafe, and his astonishment actually saw one of those hated "Anglais" occupying his chair, a chair that no one hitherto had dared to sit upon except himself. Mastering his passion he undid his sword belt, and having placed his sword on one side, began to insult the perfectly innocent English officer who sat so unconsciously looking in his (the Frenchman's) chair. He trod upon the Englishman's toes, he deprived him of his candles; he went from one thing to another without all being able in the least, apparently, to disturb the other's placidity.

At last he snatched the newspaper out of the Englishman's hand; and the Briton slowly rose up, displaying to the astonished eyes of the Gaul a Guardsman nearly seven feet high. The giant, bending across the table, seized hold of the Frenchman's nose, with one hand and his chin with the other, and wrenching his mouth open, spat down his throat. With a howl the Frenchman, holding his under jaw with both hands, ran out of the room. His jaw was broken; and neither he nor any of his comrades was seen again at that cafe. This Englishman was Gen. Sir James Simpson, afterward commander in the Crimea and noted as the tallest man in the British army.

FISHERY CONTROVERSY.

THE PROPOSED TREATY BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA.

It calls for the appointment of a mixed commission to agree upon the existing difficulties, the limit line, and privileges of our fishing vessels.

New York, May 6.—The Washington correspondent of the Times sends to that paper a copy of the letter of Secretary of State Bayard to Minister Phelps, at London, enclosing a draft of a proposed treaty between the United States and Canada on the fishing controversy, the publication of which is said to be authorized by the secretary. The treaty calls for the appointment of a mixed commission to agree upon the limits which shall separate the exclusive from the common rights of fishing off the coast of the British North American colonies; to agree upon regulations to secure the fishermen of the United States the privilege of entering bays and harbors for the purpose of shelter, for repair, and of purchasing wood and water, and to agree upon penalties for the violation of such privileges.

Pending a definite arrangement, Great Britain agrees to instruct Canadian officials not to molest fishing vessels of the United States unless they are found actually fishing within three miles of the coast. Both governments agree to send each to the Gulf of St. Lawrence a national vessel and also one each to cruise during the fishing season on the southern coasts of Nova Scotia. When a vessel is seized for the violation of the foregoing provisions, the master shall be reported to the officer in command of one of these National vessels, who, in conjunction with the commander of another of said vessels, shall constitute a court of inquiry. If both are of the opinion that the seizure was not for good cause, the vessel shall be released, and in the event of a difference of opinion between the commanders, a third person shall be selected to act as umpire.

It is proposed to give to fishing vessels the same commercial privileges in Canadian ports as are enjoyed by other United States vessels, including the purchase of bait and supplies; all vessels now under seizure for alleged violation of the fishery law to be released, and all fines exacted in such cases refunded. Great Britain is asked to agree to the appointment of a joint commission to ascertain the amount of damage caused to American fishermen during the year 1884 by seizure and otherwise, said committee to make awards thereto for the parties injured.
